

Cristina Morrone

Clinical psychologist

She graduated with honours in Clinical Psychology at University of Pavia (Italy). She successively attended a specialization course on attachment-based assessment and interventions.

She's clinical overseer of the Italian Lab. for research and intervention in the development of talent, potential and giftedness (University of Pavia) and she's currently conducting research on giftedness, especially on assessment of gifted children.

She has been lecturing undergraduate students on "Developmental and Educational Psychology" course at Dept. of Public Health, Experimental and Forensic Medicine (University of Pavia) since 2013.

She's a lecturer in Developmental Psychology and Psychometrics at Università Telematica e-Campus in Milan and a lecturer in Developmental and Educational Psychology at University of Pavia.

She's attending a four year course in Psychotherapy.

Scientific Societies:

- Italian Psychological Association (AIP), Section of Developmental Psychology
- Italian Society of Cognitive and Behavioural Therapy (SITCC)