

She currently holds a grant at the Department of Earth and Environmental Sciences of the University of Pavia. Her main expertise is in the area of Mycology, particularly in the field of Fungal Ecology, Plant Pathology, Applied Mycology, Aeromycology.

She cooperated within national and European projects, also focused on the selection of active microfungi, useful for environmental bio-remediation practices.

She's involved in actions of counseling, specialized training and knowledge dissemination as a mycologist-taxonomist.

Since 2015 she is Contract Professor in Environmental Mycology.

She co-authored 55 scientific publications in international journals, and 4 scientific book chapters.