

Maria Grazia Bottone

Researcher and head of the Laboratory of Cell Biology and Neurobiology, Department of Biology and Biotechnology, University of Pavia

Maria Grazia Bottone is researcher of the Department of Biology and Biotechnology, University of Pavia. She is Assistant Professor of Neurobiology Degree in for the course: Neurocitology and Neurohistology and a degree in Biological Sciences for the course of Cytology and Histology. Maria Grazia Bottone collaborates with various Universities and research centers in Italy and abroad. the scientific and research activity is based on the study, with microscopic techniques, cytometric and immunohistochemical techniques, the mechanisms of cell death spontaneous or induced by pharmacological treatments, in different cell models in vitro and in vivo. the research activity is documented by 80 scientific publications in international journals with referees, presentations at national and international conferences, and 5 chapters of the book.