

Giulia Nani

obtained her Master's degree in Experimental and Applied Biology at the University of Pavia (107/110), developing a thesis: "Increased glucose metabolism as a cause of the reduced synthesis of 5- hydroxytryptamine". In November 2016 she obtained the qualification of Biologist profession. In January 2017 she obtained the Qu.A.S. Bachelor's Degree Award. From June 2015 to today she worked as a trainee, then as an intern, and finally as an apprentice at the LAB, Clinical Chemistry-Clinical Laboratory of Castel San Giovanni (PC), where she is still fully engaged in the profession of Biologist.